Frequently Asked Questions

What does quarantine and isolation mean?

Quarantine status means the individual is a close contact of a positive case and has been exposed to the COVID-19 virus. This person will need to remain in quarantine from 10 days after their last contact with the positive case. However, if the individual is fully vaccinated with the COVID-19 vaccine, and they are not experiencing any symptoms, quarantining is not required. This follows CDC guidelines.

Isolation status means having tested positive for the COVID virus. This person will need to remain in isolation for a minimum of 10 days, with the last 48 hours of the isolation period being without any symptoms and without taking any medications to mask their symptoms.

What happens when someone tests positive in the dorms?

Follow COVID-19 Dorm Procedures The first step is to contact the Residential Advisor immediately followed by the positive-tested individual to isolate and subsequently quarantine in their dorm room. Contact tracing will commence with Arctic Slope Native Association.

Who counts as a close contact?

- If you were within 6 feet to someone who has tested positive for COVID-19 for 15 minutes or more, you are considered a close contact.
- You had direct physical contact with someone with COVID-19 (hug or kiss).
- You shared eating utensils with someone with COVID-19.
- An individual with COVID-19 coughed or sneezed on you, or got respiratory droplets on you.

Will the Fall 2021 semester be in-person?

Yes. Iñisaġvik College will transition to Phase 4, “Fully Operational” by the summer 2021 semester with options for in-person classes and distance delivery. All classrooms will have the option to use shields to separate students and masks will be required.
